

Ross School-Group for the East End Clean-Up Project

The Ross School of East Hampton recently looked to the Group for the East End for a nearby community service project for several students. When the Group put teacher Jennifer Buklad in touch with the Department of Land Acquisition & Management, we organized a substantial trash cleanup on a preserve adjacent to their school grounds. This particular preserve had formerly been owned by the Ross School and was sold to the Town and County in 2007. The Town Sanitation Department generously contributed a 30-yard dumpster for the effort, which was quickly filled to the brim by the enthusiastic crew! Thank you students for your contribution!
